CRIME INCIDENT REPORT FORM
UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH FLORIDA SARASOTA-MANATEE
(to include the North Port Site)

Those individuals identified as "campus security authorities" who are required to report information they receive about specified crimes pursuant to the federal Clery Act should complete this form. The information collected from these forms will be used to prepare a compilation of statistical crime information that will be included in the campus' Annual Security Report.

It is the policy of the Campus Police Department and USF Sarasota-Manatee to ensure that victims and witnesses to crime are aware of their right to report criminal acts to the police, and to report College policy violations to the appropriate office (e.g. student conduct violations to the Office of Student Services). However, if a reporting person request anonymity, this request must be honored to the extent permitted by law. Accordingly, no information should be included on this form that would personally identify the victim without his/her consent.

Campus Police will use this form to determine the category of crime and location under which the crime should be reported according to the requirements of the Clery Act. Please forward this completed form to: Chief, New College of Florida Police Department, 5800 Bay Shore Road, CPD, Sarasota, Florida, 34243.

Firearms evidence can answer so many questions about a crime scene and can provide investigators with the answers to solve the crime and arrest the perpetrator. What type of weapon was used in the crime? How far away was the perpetrator when they fired the weapon? Was the weapon in proper working order? Who was the perpetrator? Why did they use the gun? The importance of reconstructing the crime scene can’t be overstated when it comes to firearms evidence. Firearms identification refers to ballistics and the study of firearms, which includes the operation of the firearms, cartridges, bullet comparisons, powder patterns, and gunshot residue. These identifications are extremely important to forensic scientists and criminal investigators. They provide a detailed roadmap of clues of what exactly happened and provide a timeline of events.   The characteristics of firearms are divided into two broad groups: shoulder firearms and handguns, which can be further characterized by smoothbore and rifled weapons. Basically, the rifling in a gun barrel is the spiral grooves cut into the barrel that reflects the twisting motion on the bullet as it leaves the barrel. This is what firearms examiners use to compare bullets from a crime scene and can be extremely important in any criminal investigation and prosecution. Another important forensic tool in firearms evidence are the scratches or striations that are caused by the imperfections in the grooves placed in the barrel at the time of manufacture. The use of the weapon also causes distinct scratches and striations. CSI was ranked among the worst primetime shows by the Parents Television Council from its second through sixth seasons,[43][44][45][46] being ranked the worst show for family prime-time viewing after the 2002–2003[47] and 2005–2006[48] seasons. "Worst TV Show of the Week – CSI". A common form of evidence found at many crime scenes is firearms evidence. It can be in the form of a gun, shell casings, bullets, or any combination. This type of evidence can be found in related crimes such as murder, attempted murder, suicide, robbery, assault, and rape. It’s a fascinating and challenging technique for forensic scientists to begin to discover all of the characteristics of a particular firearm and how it was applied to the crime. Lauren Lee Smith as Riley Adams, a CSI level II (regular: season 9 (from episode 3, "Art Imitates Life") Adams is a former St. Louis police officer and a nonconformist who joined law enforcement to rebel against her parents, who are psychiatrists. The team is originally led by Gil Grissom (Petersen), a socially awkward forensic entomologist and career criminalist who is promoted to CSI supervisor following the death of a trainee investigator. She develops a strong friendship with Grissom, much to the chagrin of Sara. Jurimetrics Archived October 2, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, Spring 2007 ^ Donald E. The auction ended October 7, with the prop being sold for $15,600; CBS donated the proceeds to the National Court Appointed Special Advocate Association.[65] Law enforcement reaction Real-life crime scene investigators and forensic scientists warn that popular television shows like CSI (often specifically citing CSI) do not give a realistic picture of the work, wildly distorting the nature of crime scene investigators' work, and exaggerating the ease, speed, effectiveness, drama, glamour, influence, scope, and comfort level of their jobs, which they describe as far more mundane, tedious, limited, and boring, and very commonly failing to solve a crime.[66][67][68][69] Another criticism of the show is the depiction of police procedure, which some[70] consider to be decidedly lacking in realism.[71] For instance, the show's characters not only investigate ("process") crime scenes, but they also conduct raids, engage in suspect pursuit and arrest, interrogate suspects, and solve cases, all of which falls under the responsibility of uniformed officers and detectives, not CSI personnel.
